Kevin Karl Burger

(1957-2006)

Recognized through Trammell-Gagne

Come and visit Suite 105 to experience selected pieces of the work by Kevin Karl Burger, a New York artist dedicated to works that suggest dialogue between line, shape, subdued emotions, and transforming color. Pictured right is Martha Stewart, Kevin Burger, and Bill Abranowicz at the tribute to Kevin, "Retrospective Opening", NYC, August 2005.

"My work turns the act of painting into a process of applying a patina -- creating something new and separate from what was originally there. The image grows through a repetitive process of erasure and recovery. What remains is the essence of the thing - that which fought to survive. To make the transformation more clear, I paint images that are themselves well known or of a familiar genre. The altered view re-presents the scene and allows one to reconsider it anew."
